

PRESS RELEASE

The new innovative Secto corner lamp complements the beloved Secto Design collection. It is an addition to the Secto series and can be seamlessly combined with the rest of the models. Design protection has been approved in the EU, other jurisdictions are pending. Another recent novelty is the smaller version of the versatile Kuulto ceiling lamp. Kuulto works well on its own but thanks to its modular nature it can also be used for creating larger creative surfaces. The backbone of the Secto Design collection, the iconic Secto pendant lamp, was born in 1999. Since then, the lighting range has been carefully grown into a classic collection that today consists of 29 models that share the same unique visual language.

Sustainable and ecological design has always been the foundation of the Secto Design lamps. Since the very beginning, the Secto Design lamps have been made by hand of PEFC certified local birch in the small town of Heinola in Finland. In production, every piece of the precious birch is aimed to be utilized as effectively as possible. The entire collection comes with LEDs and the use of plastics in the packaging has been reduced to the minimum. Secto Design is committed to socially, economically and environmentally responsible production in Finland.

The magnet-like Secto Design lights can be discovered, besides the stand 123 in hall 11, at the prestigious Red Lounge area of Salone del Mobile where the Secto floor lamps are bringing light to the VIP visitors. In addition to the presence at Fiera Milano Rho, Secto Design is proud to be one of the hand-picked brands of an exhibition curated by Mr Gabriel Tan for Milan Design Week 2023. Still Life – The Art of Living takes place in an authentic home of a Milanese couple in Porta Venezia.

Secto Design is a Finnish family owned company specializing in hand-made design lamps. The entire collection is designed by the award-winning architect Seppo Koho. Secto Design lamps are appreciated for their Scandinavian design and well-known for their versatility and ability to fit in many different interiors and styles.
